Chris started his apprenticeship as a dedicated Health & Safety Specialist at Steelite. During his course Steelite acquired a new company which Chris was seconded into to implement Steelite's Health and Safety Procedures.

He had to introduce significant changes into a company with a different company culture. Using the skills and knowledge he had gained on the course, particularly change management & building relations, this was all achieved with great success. This was recognised by Steelite and Chris was subsequently promoted to a managerial role covering multiple areas.
